

The Next Generation: In the Wake of the Genocide

A Report on the Impact of the Gujarat Pogrom on Children and the Young

by an independent team of citizens
Kavita Panjabi
Krishna Bandopadhyay
Bolan Gangopadhyay

Supported by Citizens' Initiative, Ahmedabad

Acknowledgements

This team gratefully acknowledges the following people in Gujarat:

Bhavna Ramrakhiani, Ashim Ray, Fr. Victor Moses and Sejal Dand, for their unstinting support and advice.

Neeta Hardikar and Vijay Macwan for taking us to camps in Godhra and Anand respectively.

Sofia Khan, Neeta Hardikar and Vijay Macwan for taking us to camps in Ahmedabad, Godhra and Anand respectively.

All the local activists, inhabitants of the camps and camp organizers for their generous co-operation and the time they gave us despite the demands of other pressing work . Giteli bhai and Latifabehn of the Iqbal Primary School Camp in Godhra, and Tahirabehn, for also welcoming us as their own into their community, and home to, to shelter us overnight.

Rahul Sen and Shakti for their hospitality.

In Calcutta we thank Sushil Khanna for his consideration and support, and Sukanya Ghosh and Vahista Dastoor for their kind help in scanning and editing our photographs that went into the report.

Finally, there is no way we can thank all the children for responding to us across their pain and fury, for their affection, and for the incredible courage and trust with which they shared their experiences.

This report is a tribute to the children of Gujarat.

Contents

Introduction	2p
Experiences of Carnage	14p
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The trauma of witnessing rape, murder and burning• The Government's response – and a pediatrician's experience• Girls raped and burnt
Role of the State and Political Parties: through the prism of the young	5p
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Arrests of minors - abuse under Prevention Of Terrorism Ordinance (POTO)• Lawyer's account• Response of the Chairperson of the Juvenile Justice Board• Arrests and torture of college students• How the young perceive political parties, the police, the government - and the Gujarati newspaper Sandesh
The Crackdown on Education	13p
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Political party forces withdrawal of children from private schools Issue of basic safety• Decreasing strength of Municipality Schools in minority areas Steady phasing out of classes 5-7 in Municipality Primary Schools Labs destroyed, computers looted in Boys High School Dress codes in Government Aided College – students compelled to leave• Lack of provisions for examinations; Supreme Court case for supplementary exams for std. x & xii• Girls' education and the impact of the carnage• Large scale displacements of populations; problems of rehabilitation and education• The Government's response – and of a prominent educational foundation
Violations of the Constitution and International Treaties	6p
Conclusion and Recommendations	5p
Appendices	22p
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Appendix 1: Text of the interview with Anandiben Patel, Education Minister, Gujarat.• Appendix 2: Differences between the majority community camp and the minority community camps• Appendix 3: Perceptions of the young regarding the "other" community/neighbours• Appendix 4: Girls Raped and Burnt (5 testimonies from The Survivors Speak)• Appendix 5: "Muslim schoolkids targetted" (from Hindustan Times)	